Identifying and documenting the major production constraints is a prerequisite for establishing a good breeding program with clearly defined priority objectives and breeding strategies. Thus, the objectives of this study were to identify groundnut production constraints and assess farmers' preferred traits.

Our breeding priorities. Our breeding program focuses on five top priorities: Responsive to market demands, including dry, canned and niche market beans, such as snap, green and fresh grain; Resistance to major abiotic constraints, including drought, heat, cold, water logging, and low soil fertility including acidity, low nitrogen, low phosphorus and salinity

Breeding - PABRA-Africa
The study showed that more than 94% of the respondents depended on farming for their livelihoods. Main sweetpotato production constraints were Sweetpotato virus disease (SPVD) and pests, drought, unavailability of markets and lack of transport, low prices, inadequate extension services and postharvest losses.
